Community Engagement

GRATITUDE DAY

In their first year at DPC, the students engaged in a heartwarming practice of gratitude as a part of their psychology course.

They decided to express their appreciation to the staff and faculty members who made their college experience lively and enjoyable. Coincidentally, this act of kindness took place on the last regular day before the students embarked on their final exams.

The atmosphere was filled with joy as the students distributed candy, sweet chocolate, flower-decorated, and quoted mini bags to the dedicated staff and faculty.

This gesture created a happy environment and proved to be mentally rewarding for both the students and the recipients of their tokens of love and gratitude.

It was a beautiful way to acknowledge and thank the individuals who contribute to making their college a vibrant and functioning community

GRATITUDE DAY

Through acts of kindness, let's spread happiness.

" Seeing the color of spring during a summer trip to Nepal inspired me to take this picture also the traditional/ religious decoration (the colorful flags) coming cafe in fusion with a modern also seemed fascinating to me "

"With friends, I went to visit a fort which was higher up and I remember walking up a steep route to see the ancient fort overlooking the village.

The man-made fort was beautiful but even more beautiful and glorious seemed to me the powerful sun rays, which seemed to be pouring its glory onto the beautiful village, which inspired me to capture the scenery. "
